ASSASSINATION IN IRELAND.

Lord Cavendish and Thomas Burke Murdered.

The Land League Denounce the Act.

Indignation Everywhere Expressed at the Foul Deed.

DUBLIN, May 6, 1882.—Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Thomas Henry Burke, under secretary for Ireland, were assinated this evening in Phenix Park. They were strolling in the park, about a half mile from the city gate and a quarter of a mile from the chief secretary's lodge, when a car drove up containing four men, two of whom jumped down from the car and attacked Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke, stabbing them both several times in the throat and breast. The victims struggled hard for life, and in the struggle became separated, their bodies being found some ten paces apart. The tragedy occurred about 7.10 o'clock in the evening, and in broad daylight. The bodies were first discovered by two young gentlemen, who were riding bicycles through the park, and who immediately gave the alarm to the police. Surgeons soon reached the spot, but the police were already conveying Mr. Burke's body away to the town, where an examination showed life to be extinct. The upper part of the body was perforated in a shocking manner and presented a ghastly sight. The body of the chief secretary displayed the same dreadful wounds. In addition to which his left arm was broken and torn as if he had put it up to protect his breast. The locality of the outrage is terribly marked with blood. The spot where the body of Lord Frederick Cavendish was found was absolutely deluged, while Mr. Burke's body lay in a pool of blood. It is said that, after the act, the murderers immediately drove off.

How Parnell Received the News.

LONDON, May 7.—The Daily News this morning reports that when Mr. Parnell heard of the murder he was at first inclined to resign his seat in Parliament and withdraw for the present from politics. The advice of influential friends, some not belonging to his own party, induced him to give up his intention.

Dublin Awe-Stricken.

DUBLIN, May 7.—The popular feeling is intense. The blow was so sudden, everybody is awe-stricken. In all churches today the preachers, with scarcely an exception, deplored the outrage and uttered the severest denunciations against the murderers. At the masses prayers were offered up for the dead.

Lord Cavendish's Successor.

The Standard says it believes the post of chief secretary for Ireland will be offered to and accepted by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, president of the Board of Trade. It says that Mr. W. E. Forster has offered his services to Mr. Gladstone, if they are required.

Arrest of Four Men on Suspicion.

The Herald's cable despatch from Dublin says that four men have been arrested there on suspicion. The report which appears to have the most color of truth, and is most generally believed, is that the four suspects are Englishmen.

Notes From Dublin.

DUBLIN, May 7.—Maguire, one of the men who discovered the remains, says that only nine or ten minutes elapsed between his meeting Cavendish and Burke alive and well and finding their dead bodies.

A huge subscription, as a reward for information leading to the discovery of the murderers, is talked of.

It was reported today that Mr. Burke was the victim whose assassination had been planned, and that Lord Cavendish was killed because he was in Mr. Burke's company.

It is thought possible that the House of Commons will adjourn shortly after the meeting today as a mark of sympathy.

FOREIGN.

Gultenism in Japan.

YOKOHAMA, May 7.—Itagaki Taisuke, formerly a member of the highest Imperial Council, and now an influential leader of the advanced liberal party, was severely wounded by assassins in the province of Owari. The motive is unknown. The assailant declares he had no accomplices, and that he was inspired to remove one whom he considered a disturber of the public peace.

Items From Japan.

YOKOHAMA, May 6.—A violent tornado at Nagaski, on April 11th, destroyed a large amount of public and private property, numerous ships and houses being wrecked.

United States steamship Alert, while preparing to return to San Francisco, collided, April 18th, in an inland sea, with the imperial yacht Jingei Kan. The damage is believed to be serious.

British steamship Mary Latham, from Hong Kong for Portland, Oregon, with 900 Chinese on board, has been wrecked on the southwest point of Goizo. The crew and passengers were safely landed.

Emperor William Again a Grandfather.

POTSDAM, May 7.—Princess Victoria, wife of Crown Prince Frederick William, has been safely delivered of a son. Both mother and child are progressing favorably.

Condensed Telegrams.

The First Universalist Society, of Lynn, cancelled its entire debt of $30,000, Sunday, by subscription.

The Lincoln club, Cincinnati, will give Judge Taft a reception, on Thursday evening next, in honor of his appointment as Minister to Austria.

Services commemorative of the late Waldo Emerson were held in all the Unitarian churches of Boston Sunday.

The president of the carpenters' union, in Philadelphia, has been notified that the men refuse to work for less than four dollars a day, sixty men having gone out for that amount Saturday.

Willie Schuler, 5 years old, has been fatally poisoned at Greenfield, Mass., by eating impure bologna sausages sold to a Greenfield butcher by a firm in Springfield. Mrs. Schuler, two Markle children and U. N. Reed were made sick by the sausages but are recovering.

A fire causing a loss of $50,000 stock and $10,000 on building, occurred in New York Sunday afternoon in the shirt and knitting manufactory in West Fifty-first street, occupied by Mary Grosser, which is fully insured. The paper mill of James M. Reynolds, in the rear, was damaged $10,000; no insurance.

At a social gathering in the apartments of Frank Clifford and wife, at One Hundred and Tenth street and Riverside drive, in New York on Saturday night, Mrs. Clifford was badly and a number of the guests slightly injured by a terrific explosion at the back of the house. The explosive was thought to be giant powder.

Robert Bechter, a farmer living near Leona, Ka., was shot dead by his wife on Saturday, who then killed herself. She left a letter saying that she had shot her husband because he intended to disinherit the son, and she preferred that both should die that the son might enjoy the property undisturbed.

WASHINGTON.

The Court of Appeals Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—It is reported that leading Democrats of the House and Senate, at an informal conference held within the past few days, have agreed that, if they are given assurances that one-third of the 18 new federal judges who will be appointed if Judge David Davis's bill creating a Court of Appeals in every judicial circuit of the United States should become a law, they will not strenuously oppose the bill. On the other hand, if they think they have reason to believe that, especially in the South, Republicans only are to be appointed to the new judgeships, they will resist the passage of the bill by every means in their power. It is also stated that the Republicans are willing to assure the Democrats that half the new judges only shall be Republicans, and the other half to be composed equally of Independents and Democrats. It is believed that the Democrats will accept half a loaf in preference to no bread.

The Fitz John Porter Case.

There will be strong opposition in each House to any further action in the Fitz John Porter case. His friends, however, intend to push it, and seem to feel confident of success. The added argument by those who oppose his restoration will now be that the President has done quite enough; all, in fact, that can properly be asked under the circumstances.

Piles! Piles!! Piles!! No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams's Indian Pile Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 years' standing. No one will suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. WILLIAMS'S INDIAN PILE OINTMENT absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice; gives instant relief, and is prepared ONLY FOR PILES, itching of the private parts and nothing else.

Read what Hon. Judge Collinbury, of Cleveland, says: "I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams's Indian Pile Ointment.

PERSONALS.

.....General Grant and his family will take possession of their Long Branch cottage on the first of June.

.....There is talk at Salem of tendering a reception to young Mr. Newcomb, the naturalist of the unfortunate Jeannette Arctic expedition.

.....Archibald Forbes says the warmest and most appreciative audiences he found in America were those which attended his lectures in Cincinnati.

.....Mr. John Russell Young, Minister to China, will sail from San Francisco on May 20 for Yokohama, whence a United States man-of-war will convey him to Pekin.

.....Arthur Sullivan, having returned to London from the Pyramids, conducted on the 25th of April the first performance of the "second year" of "Patience." He will preside at the dinner of the Royal musicians this year.

.....Mr. E. C. Stedman, with his son, Mr. Arthur Stedman, has sailed for Europe. He will spend the summer in northern Italy and Switzerland and give his time to the completion of his work on "The Rise of American Poetry."

.....Darwin's health was weak nearly his whole life, and was so uncertain even twelve years ago that he was then forbidden to visit Oxford to receive an honorary degree, lest the excitement of an appearance in a crowd should prove too much for him.

.....Gov. Charles H. Hardin, the founder of Hardin College, at Mexico, Mo., has just given to the institution $19,000 in cash to build a new wing to the edifice and make other improvements. This makes an aggregate of nearly $70,000 which he has bestowed upon the college.

.....It is understood or at least reported that Lord Dufferin is shortly to become the lord lieutenant of Ireland. He is probably super-eminently well qualified to fill such a position in a state of circumstances in which the gifts most to be desired are those which enable a man to walk warily between opposite dangers, and to blarney everybody within reach discreetly and successfully.—[St. John News.

PERILS OF CALIFORNIA AGRICULTURE.

Briggs' great orchard illustrates the dangers of planting on riparian bottoms in California. Briggs was offered $460,000 for his orchard in February. It was on an affluent of the American River that falls into the Sacramento miles below. He declined selling. A few days later, in March, the whole orchard was buried beneath ten thousand tons of coarse gravel and boulders brought down in a rushing flood from the auriferous gravel mines above. In the twinkle of an eye every tree disappeared. Only here and there could be seen a tree-top to indicate the locality of the orchard which a few months before was famous for its wealth of varied fruitage. It is now forever debarred from resurrection by a dense forest of willows thirty feet high covering the whole surface. But the indomitable Briggs planted more extensively elsewhere, and he still leads in fruit production and in successful realization. In such a roaring flood on American River, Sacramento, Smith's extensive and most ornate public gardens, valued at $100,000 an acre, were swept away bodily, and the brother owners were ruined. Every year such floods destroy thousands of acres of the richest bottoms along our rivers.—[San Francisco Correspondence Baltimore Sun.

LITERARY NOTES.

The correspondence of Théophile Gautier is to be brought out shortly, edited by the Vicomte de Spoelberg de Lorenjoul.

Mr. Cross has informed the London Athenæum that he has not abandoned the biography of his late wife George Eliot.

The June Wide Awake will contain the famous $600 prize frontispiece "A-Maying," drawn by Lungren and engraved by Closson.

Horatio Alger, Jr., has written a new book, entitled "From Farm Boy to Senator," being a boy's life of the great American statesman and orator, Daniel Webster.

The June number of Harper's Monthly will have not only a striking full-page portrait of Mr. Longfellow, but also a delightful article on the dead poet from the pen of George William Curtis.

After the Freshet is an entertaining, helpful story for boys, from the pen of Rev. Edward A. Rand, an author who has won considerable success in writing for the young. Boston:—D. Lothrop & Co.

An imperfect copy of the rare old volume "Dame Juliana Berner's Boke of St. Albans" was sold lately in London for $3000. It was the most perfect copy offered for sale during the present century.

Judge Torrgée will hereafter confine his literary efforts to the pages of Our Continent. He will shortly begin in that paper the publication of a serial story in twelve parts, to be called "Hot Ploughshares."

The frontispiece prepared for the June number of The Century is a portrait of Cardinal Newman, copied from a very beautiful etching well known in London. An accompanying article on the cardinal, written by C. Kegan Paul, gives a picturesque description of Newman's life among the brotherhood.

Colonel W. H. Gilder, the Herald correspondent, whose journey across the wilds of Siberia, with the news of the burning of the Rodgers, has attracted general attention, is the author of "Schwatka's Search"—an account of the Arctic expedition in quest of Franklin relics, on which he served as second officer.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have headed off the piratical edition of Longfellow's "Hyperion" and "Outre-Mer" by issuing both works in paper covers at fifteen cents each. They ask the trade and public to avoid the Lovell edition, issued as it was in disregard of the rights of Mr. Longfellow's family, and so sharply after the death of the poet himself, and to purchase only the authorized copyright editions purchased by them.

The Literary World states that it is understood that the first publication from Emerson's papers will be the Carlyle correspondence, which is complete and in the hands of Miss Ellen Emerson. It covers nearly forty years, and may naturally be expected to be of great intellectual interest and value. A life of Emerson by Mr. J. Eliot Cabot, who may be called Mr. Emerson's literary executor, is also to be looked for; and further selections from his MSS. are likely to follow.

Richard Grant White's paper on Opera in New York in the June Century (the last of the series) will bring the history of opera down to the present time, and will include portraits of Patti, Gerster, Nilsson, Lucca, Minnie Hauk, Miss Kellogg, Annie Louise Cary, Grisi, Pizzolanini, Mario, Brignoli and others.

The chief poem of the next number of the Century is entitled "Jewess," and is the work of Joaquin Miller. A little verse by Mr. Longfellow is also given. This was discovered by the editor of the magazine painted on a piece of tin and fastened over a rustic well in front of the Crab Inn at Shanklin, Isle of Wight. The American, instantly recognizing the poetic touch, said, "That must be Longfellow's"—and so, indeed, it proved to be. The poet had written it specially for that town well.

Cardinal Newman's portrait will be the frontispiece of the June Century. An authentic life of the cardinal, by Kegan Paul, the well-known London publisher, will accompany it. In writing this life Mr. Kegan Paul has had the assistance of some of the cardinal's most intimate friends and associates, and his paper will probably be the best account of the cardinal that will appear during his life. It includes a brief essay by the cardinal himself, never before published, on the Inspiration of the Bible.

SQUARING THE CIRCLE.

James Morton is a Philadelphia mathematician who claims to have solved the problem of "squaring the circle." The solution of this problem of finding the exact area of a circle has occupied the attention of mathematicians from time immemorial. Many claimed to have performed it, but their demonstrations have always failed to stand the test. The earliest names connected with the subject are those of Anaxagoras and Archimedes, and since their time multitudes have engaged in the fruitless quest. Probably as much time has been spent on the quadrature of the circle as on all useful and practical mathematics. The nature of the problem places it outside the domain of the arithmetical calculation, but notwithstanding this admitted fact, the ratio between diameter and circumference has been carried out to over 600 decimal places. Mechanical solutions have been numerous, but none of them can claim even an approximation to the accuracy obtained by arithmetical methods. Geometry, however, may be adequate to solve the problem, and it is this possibility which leads to the continued efforts of numerous mathematicians. The duplication of the cube was for centuries considered impossible, but higher geometry at last accomplished the task by means of a peculiar curve, known as the Cussoid of Diocles. So, by geometrical methods, Mr. Morton thinks he has accomplished the quadrature of the circle. His recently published book contains the results of his investigations on the matter, and much other information on relative topics. His solution, put in the form of a proposition, is as follows:—"The square of the diameter of any circle is to its area as the perimeter of a square described on the diameter of the circle is to its circumference; or conversely, the area of any circle is to the square of its diameter as the circumference of the circle is to the perimeter of a square described on its diameter." The verdict of mathematicians as to the validity of Mr. Morton's demonstration of the proposition will be awaited with considerable interest by all who have bestowed any attention on the old problem.—[Rochester Democrat.

BUILDING IRON-CLADS.

To those in this country who seem to think that, in the event of a foreign war, we could "create" a navy off hand, as we are said to have done twenty years ago, attention may well be directed to the labor that has attended the construction of the latest accession to the French iron-clad fleet, the Foudroyante. This vessel was launched at Toulon a few days since, but will not be ready for active service for some months to come. But to bring her into her present condition has required the labor of more than four years, as her keel was laid in 1877. The accounts of the chief constructor show that, at the time she took her first dip in the water, she represented 800,000 days of work. That is to say, during the four years in which she was being built, there must have been constantly employed upon her more than 600 men. This would certainly indicate that the work was not delayed, for it would not be economical or convenient to employ many more men in building one vessel. If that number had been greatly increased, it would have occasioned such an interference that the work would have been delayed instead of being expedited. Now, if it requires four years to build a modern ironclad, in what position would we be if a war should break out, and the need on our part of a few vessels of this class was made apparent? Grant, for the sake of argument, that our shipyards could turn out an ironclad in half the time required in France, would this help us? Does anyone suppose that an enemy would give us two years of grace before beginning the attack? It cannot be too often insisted upon that our ability to extemporize a navy, when an emergency arises, is one of those pleasing delusions from which we may some time be aroused by a painful experience.—[Boston Herald.

NEWPORT DAILY NEWS AND THE NEWPORT JOURNAL.

The Newport Daily News is published every afternoon (Sundays excepted), at the News building, 127 Thames street, by Davis & Pittman.

The Newport Journal is published at the same office every Saturday morning and contains a selection of the best matter in the Daily, including editorial discussions of the topics of the week, literary miscellanies and at least one good story, and a complete and comprehensive summary of news—local and general. The Journal is a large 32-column paper and contains a large amount of reading matter that is valuable to readers in town or country who desire a good Newport paper, but who do not take a daily from the city.

Complaints regarding the irregular or improper delivery of either paper should be sent to the office at once.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

The Daily News, $5 per annum, or 12 cents a week payable to carrier.

The Newport Journal will be sent to any address in the United States, postage paid, for $2 a year. A discount of 50 cents is made when the whole year is paid strictly in advance. These terms are invariable.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Ordinary advertisements, $1 a square, for the first insertion, and 25 cents for each subsequence. Ten lines, or less, in this type, make a square. Advertisements in reading matter are charged for, at 50 per cent. extra and are subject to editorial revision. A discount on these rates is allowed on all advertisements ordered in the Daily for one week or longer.

Notices of births, marriages and funerals 50 cents each.

Yearly advertisers are limited to their immediate business, are guaranteed but five insertions in a week and are allowed twenty-five changes a year.

The circulations of the News and Journal being necessarily distinct, an advertisement inserted in both papers will reach entirely different sets of readers. As further inducement for advertisers to use both News and Journal, a liberal discount on the combined rates is made.

PRINTING.

The News has four steam presses and is a large and well appointed job printing office. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled, and at reasonable prices. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

Newport Daily News

MONDAY, MAY 8, 1882.

The late Ralph Waldo Emerson was the subject of many discourses from the Boston pulpits yesterday.

Our townsman, Clarence King, sailed for Europe on Saturday in the same steamer with William H. Vanderbilt.

The Daily Graphic aptly describes one great mission of the Christian church to be to teach the religion of "doing business."

The enlarged Conanicut Park hotel will accommodate one hundred guests. Several New York families are expected to summer there.

Providence has the lead so far for the base ball championship. It is the first sign of permanent prosperity since the Sprague failure.

The cross examination of Senator Blair in the Shipherd investigation was continued Saturday, and as usual, "nothing new" was disclosed.

There is a neat bit of sarcasm in the Boston Sunday Herald's remark that Joseph Cook writes to the Independent, from Darjeeling, India, under the Himalayas, but is not at all overcome by the immensities above him.

The Republicans of Maine are asking ex-Secretary Blaine to run for Congress on the general ticket next fall. Mr. Blaine is more at home on the floor of the House than he is anywhere else and the Republicans are sadly in need of a leader.

The national House of Representatives, on Saturday, passed the tariff commission bill as reported from the committee by a vote of 151 to 83. A bill was passed appropriating $60,000 to supply a deficiency in the appropriation for fuel, lights, etc., for public buildings.

The report that thirty of the crew of the Rodgers had perished in the burning of the vessel proves to be incorrect. The mistake was made in telegraphing, the word thirty being a part of the date. Instead of the loss of so many lives, we are glad to announce that all the crew escaped unharmed.

Commend us to the Racine reporters for large ideas. They telegraphed on Saturday particulars of the fire in that city with a loss of $13,000,000. Later in the day this sum began to be cut down. It soon reached $2,000,000. Then it struck $750,000, and the lowest estimate we have seen is $350,000. These Western men had evidently been reading the Washington despatches of the past four years.

The President has pardoned General Fitz-John Porter and thus removed the disqualification of holding civil office which was imposed upon him by the court-martial. This action of the President does not restore General Porter to the army, nor can he be so restored except by a special bill passed by Congress. It is known that Porter will do all he can to have Congress pass a bill giving the President power to restore him to his former rank, but it is scarcely probable that such a bill can go through this Congress.

However successful Mr. Fred. A. Gower may be in other spheres, he has not yet been successful in arranging matches with any boat of the size of the Gleam. Bell's Life, the great sporting paper of England, says:—"It is likely that the proposed matches between the American centreboard catboat Gleam and a boat, the name and record of which are unknown, may fall through, as the anonymous acceptor of the challenge has withdrawn. The owner of the Gleam writes that by an unfortunate coincidence the letter of withdrawal was dated the day after the Gleam appeared on the Itchen."

THE IRISH ASSASSINATIONS.

The news from Ireland is of the most exciting and startling character. It comes like thunder from a clear sky after the storm had gone by and the clouds had passed out of sight. Just as the policy of the English government had been changed and there was every disposition manifested to relieve the suffering tenants and do justice to all concerned, one of the foulest crimes in Irish history is perpetrated, and under circumstances that leave but little doubt that it is an outcome of the recent agitations. The particulars will be found in another column, and need not here be recapitulated. It is sufficient to say that the outrage is wholly without excuse. It can in no wise serve the cause of Ireland's political advancement, but must seriously check the progress of the movement in her favor. The shadow has gone far back on the dial, and the perpetrators of the foul deed have stabbed their country's hopes as fatally as they did the bodies of their illustrious victims.

It is yet too early to determine whether or not the Land League and its kindred associations are in any sense connected with this great crime. The agitators will be held responsible, under the circumstances, unless they can clearly show that the assassins and murderers were not in harmony with them, or at least did not act under their inspiration. Parnell, Davitt, Dillon and others, however, should have the credit of having openly discouraged such acts in the past. They have sought reform by more peaceable means, but there has always been a large class of their followers who have hinted at assassination and pillage as an element not to be avoided. And it is probably some of these hot heads who have done their cause this great harm.

In this country the most prominent Irishmen, those with clear heads and honest hearts, with one voice condemn the act. The Hon. P. A. Collins, of Boston, late president of the American Land League, says it is "a calamity with effects which are incalculable," and proceeds at once to denounce it as wicked in the extreme. J. Boyle O'Reilly says that "nothing would bring so great a grief to every respectable Irishman throughout the entire world as the truth of such a rumor. Every friend of Ireland would reprobate and detest any such deed." Thomas F. Doherty speaks in equally strong terms: and all unite in fearing the worst results for Ireland.

The victims were men of high character as well as position. Lord Frederick Cavendish was the new chief secretary, and Mr. Thomas Haviland Burke was the under secretary for Ireland. Lord Frederick's tenure of office had but just begun. He received the appointment on Thursday, left London for Dublin on Friday in company with Earl Spencer, the new lord lieutenant, arrived at the Irish capital Saturday, and was assassinated on the evening of the same day. While Lord Frederick had just entered office in Ireland, his fellow-victim, Mr. Burke, was probably marked for removal from the under secretaryship when the fatal blow brought a swifter termination. Thus the effort of the government to pacify Ireland and to do its people justice is met at the very threshhold, and, so far as possible, repelled. It is a curious as well as terrible chapter in Ireland's curious and terrible history. Should it appear that the act is a part of the policy of the agitators, evil days have indeed come to that unhappy country; for England will not consent to be influenced and controlled by acts of open hostility. Let us hope that the murder may be found to be the act of some base fellows of the Guiteau class, and that it has as little political significance as possible.

NEVER KNEW ANYTHING LIKE IT!

Such is the verdict given by the weather grumblers at almost every season of the year. If it is warm they never knew it so warm before; if it is cold the like has not occurred within memory of the oldest inhabitant. The complaints of cold during the past April have been numerous and sometimes bitter. But persons who consult the official record will find that April, 1882, was warmer than April, 1881, and that the season now is not one whit later than last year. In 1881 the highest point registered by the thermometer was 62.5, in 1882 it was 62.4, practically no difference. In 1881 the lowest point touched was 22.5; in 1882 it was 24. The mean temperature last year was 42.7; this year 43.1. In 1880 the mean temperature was 45.4; in 1879, 43.5.

TRAINING FLEET ITEMS.

When the Minnesota came to Newport last year she brought a large quantity of provisions for the use of the fleet. Under the improved method of entering for the boys' messes, inaugurated by Commodore Luce, these provisions have not been needed; hence their shipment to the New York navy yard this week. Perhaps one of the most important changes which has taken place in the domestic economy of the navy for some years is this improved method of catering. It is not long since apprentice boys and men all lived strictly upon the ration issued by the government, and in bad weather at sea a piece of salt "junk" and a "hard tack" constituted the bill of fare. Now all that is changed; the caterer of the boys' messes draws from the paymaster the money value of the ration, which enables him to lay in large quantities of fresh provisions, to furnish a varied and attractive bill of fare every day, and to save some money besides.

It is quite likely that the feeling of sympathy so strongly manifested toward the late bandmaster Bayes during his illness by his many friends in the fleet, will result in some substantial testimonial to his bereaved widow and children.

The Hon. Secretary of the Navy has informed Captain Clark, of the New Hampshire, of his intention to award two life-saving medals to Sullivan and Troy, boatswains' mates, for the rescue from drowning of apprentice boy Price.

Ensign Tappan, of the New Hampshire, has been ordered to temporary duty on board the Minnesota by Captain Gillis.

Past Assistant Surgeon J. C. Wise is away on a brief leave of absence for the purpose of bringing his family to Newport.

The steam launch of the New Hampshire commences her regular trips today. Her appearance is a credit to Lieutenant Graydon, who superintended her repairs.

"ROCHE."

The necessity of keeping down the rabbits which are eating up the colony of New Zealand has led to a demand of cats for rabbiting. Professional rabbiters, who are paid a price ranging from 1s. to 3s. for each dozen skins, according to their state, have been employing cats to aid them in the capture, and the venture has been so successful that in some parts good rabbitting cats can command half a crown each.

—A game of base ball was played Saturday afternoon on Coasters Harbor island between a picked nine from the New Hampshire and the seaman apprentices' nine from the Minnesota, resulting in a victory for the New Hampshire. The pitching of J. F. Sullivan of the New Hampshire was too much for the seaman apprentices. The score at the end of the game stood as follows:—New Hampshire 17, Minnesota 16.

SUPREME COURT—MARCH TERM.

ELEVENTH DAY.

The court met this morning as per adjournment of Friday last, at ten o'clock. Present Mr. Justice Matteson.

This day the divorce docket is in order of trial, and there was some delay in waiting for parties and witnesses from other parts of the county. At eleven o'clock, upon the arrival of the cars, the first case in order was put on trial, being the petition for divorce and alimony and custody of child, Hannah B. Manchester vs. George F. Manchester, of Little Compton. Messrs. Sheffield for petitioner, and Colonel S. R. Honey for the respondent.

The criminal docket will be on trial tomorrow, commencing with the trial of the indictments against Wm. H. Durfee. The case of Abraham J. Bliss vs. Le Roy M. White on the civil docket is also in order of trial tomorrow.

At 1.30 o'clock, the testimony in the Manchester divorce case was concluded and the case closed, and the court then took a recess until three o'clock this afternoon.

The following are among the recent entries of this term:—

In the divorce suit of Hannah B. Manchester vs. George F. Manchester of Little Compton, Frederick R. Brownell, Esq., of that town has been appointed a commissioner to take testimony to be used in the trial of this case. The husband has been enjoined from disposing of his property, real or personal, until this matter of divorce and alimony shall have been passed upon and settled by the court.

In the case, now in the equity docket, of Charlotte C. Douglass vs. Court of Probate of the town of Portsmouth et al., a jury trial has been asked for by the respondents. This is a suit brought by the petitioner to endeavor to set aside John F. Chase as guardian of his sister, Caroline E. Chase, appointed by the Court of Probate of Portsmouth, and to have some one else appointed. The ward is somewhat of an imbecile and is possessed of some property, and there seems to be a clashing of interests.

The case of Bernhard Mainset et al. vs. Hiram R. Dixon, of New York, was discontinued. This action was commenced by service of a trustee writ on the Church Brothers of Tiverton, and as they made affidavit of no funds, the plaintiffs discontinued.

THE COLONEL.

The very esthetic comedy of The Colonel was performed at the Opera House Saturday evening to a good house. The first act of the piece shows the absurdities of the æsthetic craze, and is clearly a farce. In the second act the real comedy of the piece begins and is decidedly an improvement on the first. The whole piece savors very much of the plot of "The Serious Family" adapted to suit the demands of æstheticism. It has considerable of the English element in it and would please an English audience much more than an American one. Quite a number of good hits and incidents were not appreciated at all by the audience. Mr. George Holland, as the "Colonel" acted with a vim which made the piece interesting and he was the wit of the evening. The piece is a satire of the broadest character and as such was a decided success.

ARLINGTON HOUSE.

Arlington House and the National Cemetery, on Arlington Heights are well worth a visit; and the excursion from Washington is pleasant. The trip takes about three hours, two of which are spent upon the road. The house is upon the Virginia shore of the Potomac, and was formerly the residence of George Washington, Parke Custis, the adopted son of General Washington; and, lately, the home of General Robert E. Lee. General Lee obtained it through his wife, who was the daughter of Mr. Custis. When General Lee became the military chief of the rebel army, the estate of nearly one thousand acres was abandoned; and in 1863 it was sold under the confiscation act; and the next year was taken possession of by the national government. About two hundred acres were set apart as a national cemetery for deceased soldiers of the army; and the cemetery was formally established in 1867. In the rear of the house is an amphitheatre, erected in 1873, and capable of accommodating five thousand persons. It is used for the annual ceremonies observed on Decoration day. The government laid out the grounds with special reference to a cemetery; and the bodies of about 16,000 soldiers, who died on the bloody fields of Virginia or in the hospitals at the Capitol, here have their last resting place. On the western side the white soldiers are buried; and on the northern side the black soldiers.

A short distance south of the house is a granite cenotaph, surmounted by cannon and balls, placed there in 1866 and bearing the following inscription:—

"Beneath this stone
Repose the bones of two thousand
One hundred and eleven
Unknown soldiers, gathered
After the war from the fields of Bull Run and the route to the Rappahannock.
Their remains could not be identified,
But their names and deaths
Are recorded in the archives
Of the country,
And its grateful citizens
Honor them
As of their noble army of martyrs.
May they rest in peace.
September, A. D. 1866."

In the vault beneath, thirty feet deep and two hundred and twenty feet wide, they sleep—heroes, and yet unknown. The visitor seems to be reading Fate's irony and Fame's sarcasm.

Somewhat mournfully the stranger returns to the house, thinking—

"In that mansion used to be Free-hearted Hospitality;
His great fires up the chimney roar'd;
The stranger feasted at his board."

Famed, indeed, it was for its hospitality, but—

"All are scattered now and fled,

and the great house is tenantless. It is a relic of manners and times that are forever passed. Architecturally it is not attractive, but its appearance is homelike. It consists of a central building sixty feet long, with a wing forty feet long, on either end. A Doric portico, sixty feet long, and twenty-five broad, ornaments the centre building. This portico was designed from a drawing of the temple at Poestum, near Naples. In the rear are the kitchens, the former slave quarters, the stables, and the out-houses. The building stands upon the summit of a hill, two hundred feet above the river. A superb view greets the observer. Beneath flows the noble river; beyond gleams the white classical buildings of Washington, and in front rise the Norman towers of the Smithsonian and the proud dome of the Capitol. Quaint Georgetown on the left and, in front, broad stretches of improved land fill the eye.

The approach to the grand old place, from the river below, is up a winding drive, shaded by oaks, elms, beeches and many other kinds of trees. And this place, which before the war was one of the finest in the whole land, has become a national cemetery! From the portico of the house a curious fact is brought before the eyes of the observing stranger; namely, that while on the opposite shore the land is tilled and signs of cultivation are everywhere to be seen, on the Virginia shore the land is uncultivated. Trees, bushes and shrubs abound in all places, and everything wears a neglected look. The natives south of the Potomac apparently have not the energy of their brothers north of the river.

On the Virginia shore negro boys and girls run by the side of the carriages and beg for pennies. These small creatures are of all the dark shades. Many of them are very good looking; and, as they are ever smiling and showing the whitest teeth, they present a pretty picture in their ragged clothes. It is not easy to be angry with them, for they laugh away your annoyance: and, if you become severe, they laugh all the more. Their careless jollity infects the stranger. They are very fond of warmth and, bare headed, will sit contentedly all day in the sun. With higher tastes, would they be equally content?

Strange, weird, hallowed memories cling about the place: but the existing contrast is harsh. Once a happy home, now it is a city of the dead. It was a proof of smiling peace; now it is an evidence of savage war. Its ploughs became swords; its laughter became cries; and the quiet love of its people changed to murderous hate and brought death and desolation. The impartial twilight may linger upon it as fondly as of old, and each rising sun may sanction its newer use, but the visitor finds more pleasure in thinking of its past than of its present.

ARMY AND NAVY NOTES.

The Army and Naval Journal prints a spicy and newsy letter from Newport every week.

Paymaster John MacMahon has been detached from the Vandalia and ordered to settle accounts.

Surgeon J. R. Tryon is detached from special duty at New York, and ordered to the Alaska, Pacific Station.

The United States steamer Powhattan arrived at Hampton Roads from Key West at 5 o'clock Saturday evening. All well.

The War Department is informed that General Sherman and party were at Denver Friday, and expect to reach St. Louis on Monday.

The leave of absence granted Captain L. A. Beardslee for three months from May 15, has been further extended until November 15.

Lieutenant Commander George B. Livingston has been detached from the Washington navy yard and placed on waiting orders.

The orders of Commodore Edward Y. McCauley to command the navy yard, Pensacola, have been revoked and he is placed on waiting orders.

Commander A. S. Crowninshield is detached from duty in the signal office, Washington, and granted a leave of absence for one year from May 4.

Pay Director John S. Cunningham is ordered from duty as navy pay agent at Philadelphia on the 16th of May, ordered to settle accounts, then wait orders.

The leave of Commodore Albert G. Clary (retired list), at present at San Miguel, Azores, is for one year from May 1, with permission to remain abroad.

Rear-Admiral G. H. Cooper, U. S. N., left New York April 29 for Fort Monroe to take command of the North Atlantic squadron. He was accompanied by Capt. J. M. Miller, Lieut. B. F. Tilley and Ensign R. T. Mulligan.

The torpedo ram Alarm, with Admiral Porter on board, arrived at Norfolk, Saturday. Courtesies were exchanged with the German man-of-war Louise, and of the navy yard. The Alarm left for Fort Monroe the same evening.

Lieutenant-Commander Charles H. Davis has reported his return home, having been detached from the Palos on the 28th of March last, and has been ordered to duty in the Bureau of Navigation in connection with the reduction of telegraphic longitude observations.

Lieutenant Commander Francis M. Green has reported his return home, having been detached from the command of the Palos on the 28th of March last, and has been ordered to duty in the Bureau of Navigation in connection with the reduction of telegraphic longitude observations.

Orders have been issued at the Navy Department for the vessels of the North Atlantic station now in Hampton roads, consisting of the Tennessee, Vandalia, Alliance, Kearsarge, Enterprise and Yantic to proceed to sea on the 10th inst., for a two-days' cruise for squadron drill. The entire squadron are ordered to return to Hampton Roads by the 30th inst.

Army and Navy Journal:—It will accommodate our printers if General Israel Vogdes will transpose the g and the d in his name, and if Major Anson Mills will change the final l in his name to an e. The printer will have it this way, and no man who deals with type and loves his case ever quarrels with his printer.

In general order No. 7, Department of Dakota, April 27, General Terry announces the death and recounts the services of Captain Eugene B. Gibbs, A. Q. M., U. S. A., of whom he says:—To those who have known Captain Gibbs it is needless to speak in his praise. To others it may be said that he possessed special capacity for the duties devolved upon him, was a most conscientious, upright, intelligent officer and, up to the time when he was stricken with the disease that caused his death in the prime of life, a most efficient public servant. In private life he was an honorable, charitable, kind-hearted and generous man. To the department commander this severance of the intimate relations, which for so long existed between himself and Captain Gibbs, gives peculiar pain, for while the service has only lost a valuable officer, he has lost an attached and faithful friend. In respect to the memory of Captain Gibbs, all officers of the staff of the department, with whom he was so long associated, will wear the usual badge of mourning for the period of thirty days.

WHAT THE LAND LEAGUERS HAVE TO SAY.

The latest telegrams bring reports of interviews with the leading Irish agitators from which we extract the following as showing the current of opinion among that class:—

SAYS PARNELL.

I am horrified more than I can express. This is one of the most atrocious crimes ever committed. Its effect must certainly be most damaging to the interests of the Irish people. I have always found Lord Frederick Cavendish a most amiable gentleman, painstaking and strictly conscientious in the fulfillment of his official duties. I did not share the disappointment expressed in Liberal Irish circles regarding his appointment. I cannot conceive that any section of the people of Ireland could have plotted deliberately against the life of Lord Frederick, and I am surprised that the Dublin police, who had been able to protect Mr. Forster, should apparently not have taken any steps to watch his successor, during the few hours of his official life in Ireland. There seems to be an unhappy destiny presiding over Ireland, which always comes at a moment when there seems some chance for the country to destroy the hopes of her best friends.

MR. DILLON.

Mr. Dillon, in an interview, said he deeply deplored the sorrowful tidings. He fully concurred in the opinions on the outrages expressed by Mr. Parnell.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY.

Mr. Justin McCarthy, replying to an interviewer, said he was in a state of consternation and fully agreed that the results would be disastrous to the Irish cause, at least for some time.

MR. SEATON.

I am bewildered and horrified. I regarded Lord Frederick Cavendish as an amiable and painstaking gentleman. He was certainly considered a capable administrator. The first feeling on the appointment of Lord Frederick was undoubtedly one of disappointment, but it began to be gradually understood that Mr. Gladstone sent him to Ireland to have advantage of the service of one with whom he had long worked, thereby enabling him to apply his own will more freely to the Irish difficulties. There is no reason to believe that there was the slightest personal feeling against Lord Frederick in any political quarter of Ireland. I cannot help surmising he must have been mistaken by the murderers for some one else.

MR. DAVITT.

No language I can possibly command can express the horror with which I regard the murders, or my despair at their consequences. When I heard of them on Saturday night, I could not credit the news. I grieve to think that when the government had just run a risk in introducing a new policy, when everything seemed bright and hopeful, when all expected the outrages to cease, this terrible event should dash our hopes. I wish to God I had never left Portland. The crime was without motive. It is not only the most fatal blow that has ever been struck at the Land League, but one of the most disastrous blows which have been sustained by the national cause during the last century. Its occurrence at this particular juncture seems like a terrible destiny. My only hope is that the assassins may be discovered and punished as they deserve.

Two students, sent out by the Mexican Government, are taking practical lessons in cotton culture, having a farm near Selma, Ala., on which they do all the work themselves under the direction of a teacher.

A savant in Belgium has discovered a process by which they can transmit despatches over a telegraphic wire and utilize the wire at the same time for telephonic talk.

The trustees of Columbia College, New York, are considering the question of abolishing the study of modern languages in that institution, and the students have presented a remonstrance against the change.

The expenditures of Sing Sing prison for the month of April are given as $15,517.39, and its earnings as $19,-929.19.

The university sermon at Wesleyan University will be preached this year by Rev. J. A. M. Chapman, D. D., pastor of the St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, New York.

Twenty-nine students have dropped out of the present senior class at Brown University. The class originally numbered seventy-four.

THE IRISHMEN OF BOSTON.

A Mass Meeting in Faneuil Hall.

Special Despatch to the Daily News.]

BOSTON, May 8.—An informal conference of well-known Irishmen in this city was held this morning. There will be a public meeting in Faneuil Hall tomorrow evening to express the deep indignation of the Irish Americans. The conference has cabled Parnell offering a reward of $5000 from the Irishmen of Boston for the apprehension of the murderers.

Death of Prominent Men in Boston.

Special Despatch to the Daily News.]

BOSTON, May 8.—Theodore H. Sweetser, an eminent lawyer, and once a Democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts, died this morning at his residence in this city at the age of 61.

George F. Williams, a retired flour merchant, died in this city last evening. He was formerly of the firm of Elijah Williams & Company, and lately of the firm of Tilton, Williams & Company.

Henry Lincoln, formerly a prominent merchant and citizen of this city, died this morning in Brookline, aged 83 years.

The Dublin Detectives at Work.

Special Despatch to the Daily News.]

DUBLIN, May 8.—The city detectives have the register of all the car drivers in their hands, and will examine each driver individually with the hope of getting some clue to the murderers.

REVENUE MARINE SERVICE.

The Army and Navy Journal says:—The New York Times of May 4 has a good word to say for the revenue marine service, which we cordially endorse. It says:—"The record of the revenue marine is one of great honor and usefulness. Organized in 1799, it has taken an active military part in all our wars, while in peace it protects the revenue from smugglers, prevents piracies and robberies on the seas, enforces the quarantine and neutrality laws, aids in shipwrecks and fires and in suppressing mutinies, procures obedience to the numerous laws of the merchant marine regarding signal lights, life boats, inspection, license, enrollment and registry—in short it is the industrious and tireless coast guard of the country, now watching that the immigrant ships are not overloaded, now that buoys and lighthouses are in order, now that the government's timber lands are not encroached upon, now that its seal fisheries are not invaded. Its numerous duties over enormous coast lines are performed with only 36 vessels and a personnel of fewer than a thousand officers and men; and this force during the year 1881 cruised 300,000 miles, boarded and examined 30,000 vessels, seized, or reported more than 3,000 of them for violations of law, rescued 148 vessels in distress, valued, with their cargoes, at nearly $3,000,000, and saved 141 lives. Such a service can fairly claim the establishment of a retired list at the hands of Congress."

The Revenue Marine Service, the Coast Survey Service, the Light House Service, and the Life Saving Service should be brought under the same control as the navy. That is, when the present bureau system in the Navy Department gives place to something better.

The famous cathedral of Saint Front, at Périgueux, a unique specimen of its kind in France, has just been finished after thirty years' work of restoration. The greater part of the building dates from the eleventh century. The architecture is in the Byzantine style, and the work of restoring it is said to have been carried out with singular fidelity and success.

THE FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE OF AMERICA.

"The dream of the æsthete seemed the more empty because we had listened only a few hours before to the story of Clara Barton, whose face strongly resembles the pictures of Jenny Lind, and whose sacrifice in behalf of sick and wounded soldiers has given her the right to be called 'the Florence Nightingale of America.' The words of Ruskin's disciple though prettily strung together with artistic skill, were as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal after hearing the utterances of this royal woman, spoken in the quiet of her own room to the few who begged the privilege of calling upon her. The delicate hands of the man, encased in lavender kids and caressing a dainty manuscript, had no beauty when compared with those of the woman who went to the station to meet the brave boys of the Massachusetts Sixth, and bound up their wounds received as they came through Baltimore. She was the only woman who served through our civil war with neither pay nor commission, first going back and forth on the Potomac boats, taking the men as they came from the battle-field, with blood and mud dried upon their persons, and getting them ready for the hospitals, and afterwards doing a similar service in the camps. Sensitive and womanly in the highest degree, she shrank from the criticism involved by such a course; but even in the roughest ranks she found her womanhood a perfect shield. A charge of cavalry, rushing wildly on to an encounter, would grasp the bridle with one hand and doff their caps to her with the other. The rebellion over, four years were spent in hunting up missing soldiers, and then, as she modestly put it, she "told war stories for lecture bureaus." Nature at length rebelled against this severe strain, and one night she stopped in the middle of her story, unable to go on. After a year's rest in Switzerland she found herself in the midst of the Franco-Prussian war, and voluntarily became a prisoner in order to minister to the wants of the soldiers.

"She was at the seige of Metz and Paris, and a hundred days before Strasbourg, first with the German and then with the French army, in her labor of love. The crown princess sought her help in establishing hospitals on the American plan, and this work occupied all her remaining time in Europe. She is now engaged as president of the Red Cross Society of the Geneva Convention, a philanthropic movement for the alleviation of sufferers by war, famine or flood. Thirty-five nations have already signed the treaty, and Miss Barton has a bill before the present Congress urging America to join the humane compact."

SHARP ACTIONS WITH A BANK BOOK.

A COUSIN'S AFFECTION.

A case has lately occurred which shows the importance of care on the part of those who have depo its in savings banks as to who gets possession of their bank books. On Wednesday last a lady named Ellen O'Garra, whose maiden name was Ellen Doherty, and whose former residence was in Newport, R. I., died at her husband's home in this city, where they had lived for about three years. Before her marriage she had made a deposit in the Savings Bank at Newport, which was, of course, in her maiden name. Several relatives attended her funeral, from out of the city, and among them came female cousins who evinced so deep an interest in the personal effects of their deceased relative that the husband had to remonstrate with them. He, knowing that his wife had money in the Newport Savings Bank, and seeing the greedy disposition which some of those persons manifested, knowing also that his wife's bank book had not for some time been in her possession, decided to take legal measures to enforce his rights. He consulted an attorney, who, on Saturday morning, by the first train, sent Deputy Sheriff Hadfield to Newport, to file a protest with this Savings Bank against the payment of his wife's deposit to any one but himself. Mr. Hadfield was informed by the bank officials that the amount, $1050, had been paid over just before his arrival to a woman who purported to be Ellen Doherty, and who they supposed was the proper person. Mr. Hadfield explained to them that Mrs. O'Garra had a cousin in Newport who bore the same name as Mrs. O'Garra before marriage, and that this cousin had probably withdrawn the deposit. On a comparison of handwriting it appeared that this theory was correct. The deputy sheriff, together with a bank official and a Newport police officer, went to the woman's house and demanded the money from her. She at first claimed that the money was hers, but afterwards admitted that it belonged to her deceased cousin, who, she said, had handed her the bank book and told her to draw the money out after her death. Upon being pressed for the money she produced all but $250, which she at first said she had sent to Fall River toward paying her cousin's funeral expenses. Mr. Hadfield reminded her that no train had left Newport for Fall River since she drew the money, and she soon had to confess that this statement was not true. After a while she produced the balance of the $1050 and the money was returned to the saving bank, where it will lie pending administration upon Mrs. O'Garra's estate. It was believed that the woman was about to leave for the West had not the officer arrived just in time.

A WOMAN'S TACT.

A neat story is told by Mrs. Senator Bingham, the mother of Lady Ashburton, of the time when her husband was canvassing the Pennsylvania Legislature for Senator. He one day had a party of members to dine with him at his home in Philadelphia, and a Representative from a rural district broke a dessert plate, one of a priceless set of Sevres porcelain, fit for a gift to kings, and worth its weight in gold. Seeing the consternation and distress of her guest, Mrs. Bingham at once relieved it by saying to him with an air of perfect unconcern, "It is of no sort of consequence, for this ware is exceedingly brittle and breaks very easily; just look," and by way of an illustration she took up a plate before her as she spoke, struck it with a knife and broke it in pieces, then ordering the pieces to be taken away and fresh plates brought. The worthy man had the whole load of mortification taken from his mind and he voted for Bingham.

VERNATION.

There is nothing like a diary for upsetting boldly uttered assertions concerning the occurrences of a former season. It may be that one is speaking of only a year ago. The statement is made that flowers came earlier, buds opened sooner, etc. Looking at the record of that time, however, we often find ourselves grievously mistaken. So it has been this year in regard to the wild flowers. The exasperating cold of April led us to believe it an exceptional month, but upon consulting the time table we have kept, off and on, for many seasons, we were surprised to find scarcely any difference from year to year. Last year's dates indeed hardly differ at all. Taking cycles of ten years, which is the safest way, we find that the early flowers vary hardly three days. By the time we get to May the variation is even less. After all, it was no very astonishing thing that Thoreau was able to say "The Cypripedium due to-morrow." Any one acquainted with the woods could have done the same.

It is a matter of considerable scientific interest to know the precise dates of the flowering of our native plants, and of the bursting of the leaf-buds of trees. Such a record can be kept by any one, and in making it, he cannot help observing many other wonderful and beautiful things. Those who have read the famous Natural History of Selborne will remember that good Gilbert White's notes are not startling. They are the faithful record of observation upon the commonest objects, trees, shrubs, herbs, birds and insects. Yet how graphic is the story spread before us in the quaint and clear English of this English clergyman. All about us are things to study. The little buds lift up their hands and bid us come. There is no object so mean that we cannot find a fact of interest about it. A pebble is a paragraph in geological history; a moss or lichen will carry us back in thought to the very dawn of time.—[Providence Journal.

England will never let up on poor Ireland. She now proposes to remove all hardships from the peasantry—do just what the Land Leaguers have been fighting for, in fact, and "rob Oireland," as Patrick says, "of her gravemce."—[Boston Transcript.

A bootblack, smoking a "butt" which he had just picked up, is accosted by a comrade with, "Say, what brand of cigar is that?" "Robinson Crusoe." "Why d'yer call it that?" "'Cause it's a castaway."—[Hackensack Republican.

Victor Hugo has consented to publish one of the plays which he has so long kept locked up. He has sent to the printer the MS. of his drama of Torquemada.

The snuff-box that used to travel across the table from Charles Lamb to his sister and back again is now owned by John Hollingshead, the London theatrical manager

DICKENS IN CAMP.

Above the pines the moon was slowly drifting,
The river sang below;
The dim Sierras far beyond uplifting
Their minarets of snow.

The roaring camp-fire with rude humor painted
The ruddy tints of health
On haggard face and form that drooped and fainted
In the fierce race for wealth,

Till one arose, and from his pack's scant treasure
A hoarded volume drew,
And cards were dropped from hands of listless leisure
To hear the tale anew,

And then, while round them shadows gathered faster,
And as the fire-light fell,
He read aloud the book wherein the master
Had writ of Little Nell.

Perhaps 'twas boyish fancy—for the reader
Was the youngest of them all
But, as he read, from clustering pine and cedar
A silence seemed to fall.

The fir-trees, gathering closer in the shadows,
Listened in every spray,
While the whole camp, with Nell, on English meadows
Wandered and lost their way.

And so in mountain solitudes o'ertaken
As by some spell divine—
Their cares dropped from them like the needles shaken
From out the gusty pine,

Lost is that camp, and wasted all its fire!
And he who wrought the spell?
Ah, towering pine and stately Kentish spire,
Ye have one tale to tell!

Lost is that camp! but let its fragrant story
Blend with the breath that thrills
With hop-vines' incense all the pensive glory
That fills the Kentish hills.

And on that grave where English oak and holly
And laurel wreaths entwine,
Deem it not all a too presumptuous folly—
This spray of Western pine.

SUNDRIES.

Hester (who is accustomed to have her eggs well boiled)—"O, auntie! here's your tiresome cook's been and filled my egg too full!"—[London Punch.

"I say, doctor," remarks an assistant at the hospital, "don't you think you've given the patient rather a heroic dose?" "Sir," replies the doctor with resolution, "it is a powerful dose; but, sir, we must conquer or he must die."

Heard at a back gate—"Yes, I'm going to leave my place, I won't work in that woman's kitchen another day. The idea of expecting me to go to Long Branch again this summer! I'm tired and sick of Long Branch, and she knows it."—[Philadelphia News.

"How are you getting along?" asked a widow of her late husband, who appeared to her at midnight as a ghost. Ghost:—"Very well indeed—much better than during my twenty years' married life on earth." Widow (delighted):—"Then you are in heaven?" "Oh, no."

Property-holder—"As has been said, Mr. Lieutenant, strike you yourself my daughter out of the thoughts. I am from the bottom against the military." Lieutenant, madly despairing—"But I can without your daughter not live!" Property-holder—"That believe I certainly, with the scanty lieutenant's pay."—[Translated from the Sontagsblatt.

WHERE THE IMMIGRANTS GO.

The tide of immigrants now pushing westward is something unprecedented. A Tompkins county man writes from the far West as follows: "This is a bad time for people to go West, that is people who expect to earn a living by the sweat of their brow. The Union Pacific railway cannot get cars enough to carry the immigrants wishing to push out beyond Omaha. Manitoba is literally overflowing with laborers and higher grade workers, who cannot get even a job that will pay their board. Today a man can get work much easier in New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania than he can in Texas, Kansas and Manitoba. If any one desires to emigrate to the far West for the purpose of buying or taking up land and settling down to farming, he cannot get underway too quick, for most of the desirable land will be taken in the next five years. As for capitalists, the West is a land of promise, and fulfillment too."

The Salvator for Invalids and the Aged. An Incomparable Aliment for the Growth and Protection of Infants and Children. A Superior Nutritive in Continued Fevers, and a Reliable Remedial Agent in all Diseases of the Stomach and Intestines.

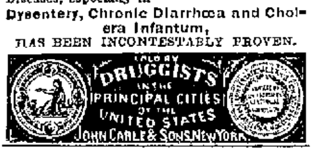

THIS justly celebrated Dietetic Preparation, is, in composition, principally the GLUTEN derived from the WHITE WINTER FLINT WHEAT CEREAL, a sold extract, the invention of an eminent Chemist. It has not only been highly recommended but certified to by a large number of Chemists and Physicians—representing a very high degree of medical science—as the SAFEST, MOST ACCEPTABLE AND RELIABLE FOOD FOR THE GROWTH AND PROTECTION OF INFANTS AND CHILDREN, and for Mothers lacking Sufficient Nourishment for their offspring.

Unlike those preparations made from animal or vinous matter, which are liable to stimulate the brain and irritate the digestive organs, it embraces in its elementary composition—

That which makes strong Bone and Muscle. That which makes good Flesh and Blood. That which is easy of Digestion—never constipating. That which is kind and friendly to the Brain, and that which acts as a preventive of those Intestinal Disorders incidental to childhood.

And, while it would be difficult to conceive of anything in Food or Dessert more Creamy or Delicious, or more Nourishing and Strengthening as an aliment in Fevers, Pulmonary Complaints, Dyspepsia and General Debility, its Rare Medicinal Excellence in all Intestinal Diseases, especially in

Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhœa and Cholera Infantum,
HAS BEEN INCONTESTABLY PROVEN.

Testimonials.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the patent office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

Boston, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Winthrop Wrought-Iron Furnace!

Has been in use for the past seven years, and given entire satisfaction. I offer it to the public as the most desirable furnace on the market. Special attention is called to the new dust-flue damper and revertible flues, that are not found in the other wrought-iron furnaces. The dust-flue damper prevents escape of dust when shaking down; the revertible flues cause the flames to sweep the entire surface of the wrought-iron drum, thereby securing much greater radiation of heat, and consequently a great saving in fuel. Cost less to keep in repair than any other furnaces. Are powerful heaters, with moderate consumption of coal. I have sold over 70 in this city. Sold by

A SPRING DEFENCE.

How to Repel the Assaults of Ill Health. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy Means Something for You.

The months of March, April and May are the three successive arches of a bridge which connects the season of ice and sleet with that of leaves and roses. No less in respect of health than of outward natural phenomena is this true. Spring is a trying season for invalids, and particularly for those who either suffer, or are liable to suffer, from Biliousness, Kidney Complaints and Constipation of the Bowels, and for women who are chronically subject to any of the long catalogue of physical ailments to which their delicate sex is heir. Indications of disease in spring should be heeded at once. A fatal attack may result from neglect or a disordered condition of the bowels. The ounce of prevention may be had where tons of cure—or attempted cure—may be unavailing. Are you vexed or troubled in spring with indigestion, torpid or disordered liver, want of appetite, constipation, or a feverish state of the skin? If so, take without an hour's unnecessary delay Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. No medicine is so harmless and yet so quick and positive in its action. It is Nature's own idea, condensed and made tangible by human skill. Do not leave home when going upon a journey without a bottle of it in your valise. You cannot possibly put one dollar in any other shape where it can render you so essential service. The FAVORITE REMEDY is almost INSTANTANEOUS in its action, but does not tear you to pieces with its violence nor nauseate you with disgust. It frees the liver from Bile and sets the machinery of your body into normal and healthy operation. Remember; Dr. D. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. Ask your druggist for it and take nothing else. Price One Dollar a bottle.
